

Show the Truth placards just too much

Hi, folks!

Decisions, decisions!

Weren't those placards on abortion something else?

Yes, we had photos of them, but no, we did not publish them.

Why? Because of the graphic content.

Some members of our newsroom staff saw nothing wrong with the photos, but some of us, on the other hand, didn't like what we saw.

The bodies of unborn babies is not something I take lightly.

How would you explain to a five-year-old child passing by those placards what it all really meant?

Even adults, in particular seniors, were disgusted with the signs.

Show The Truth Canada, the group which held Pro-Life rallies on Second Street East and Brookdale Avenue, went way over the line.

It not only showed poor taste, but a lack of good judgment as well.

They "turned off" many Pro-Lifers with their distasteful display.

There are occasions when I believe we need a reality check, but this was just too much.

For the Show the Truth group, surely there's a better way of getting your message out.

Small town Canada just isn't ready for such a display.
